

3-Day Itinerary

Three days in Greenwood allows you to craft your own schedule with plenty of time to concentrate on the blues, architecture, cooking schools, Civil War history, or whatever strikes your fancy. And with such a variety of attractions, shopping and dining, you can do it without ever cranking up your car or you can venture deep into the dusty Delta backroads. And if you don't get it all done? No problem: We'll be right here when you come back!

Museum of the Mississippi Delta

1608 Highway 82 West • 662-453-0925

Weekdays 9:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m. • Saturdays 2:00 p.m. - 5:00 p.m. • Closed on major holidays

www.museumofthemississippidelta.com

Founded in the 1970s as Cottonlandia, this outstanding regional museum will take you time traveling through centuries of Delta history and culture. From prehistoric fossils, Indian artifacts and Civil War history, to the rescued remnants of Chief Greenwood Leflore's lost mansion, the Museum of the Mississippi Delta offers an eclectic and fascinating overview of this most unusual corner of America. A short drive west of the museum will lead you to Fort Pemberton, site of one of the Civil War's more eccentric skirmishes. The fabled steamship Star of the West, the first vessel to draw fire from Fort Sumter in 1861, lies buried in the mud of the Tallahatchie River just north of the fort.

Fort Pemberton

Just west of the museum is the site of Fort Pemberton, one of a series of cotton bale fortifications placed to stop Federal boats from making their way down the Delta's river network to Vicksburg in 1863. Deep in the Tallahatchie's muddy bottom are the remains of the steamship Star of the West, fired on at Fort Sumter in 1861.

Grand Boulevard

Walk or drive across the 1925 Keesler Bridge and enjoy a mile of century-old oaks lining this wide road from the Yazoo to the Tallahatchie. Laid out across a cottonfield in the early years of the 20th century, Grand Boulevard was the dream of Sally Humphreys Gwin, a Greenwood matron who oversaw the planting of hundreds of young trees taken from the riverbanks and plantations around Leflore County. Estate-size mansions and quaint cottages line "The Boulevard," named one of "America's Most Beautiful Streets" in the 1950s.

Money Road

At the north end of Grand Boulevard is the Tallahatchie Bridge, made famous when Greenwood's own Bobbie Gentry captured the mystery in her 1967 song, "Ode to Billy Joe." Across the bridge is County Road 518, a road seared into the nation's consciousness as Money Road. This two-lane stretch of asphalt carries you to Little Zion Baptist Church, the gravesite of bluesman Robert Johnson, a cryptic character infused with talent so deep that many credited it to a deal with Satan himself. Five miles or so further up Money Road, the crumbling walls of Bryant's Grocery are all that remain to mark one of the darkest chapters in American history. When Emmett Till stepped across the threshold of that store on an August afternoon, he set in motion an explosion of terror and retribution that would rock the nation. The Civil Rights movement, a landmark 20th century social upheaval, traces its birth to that sagging store.

Perhaps it was that Money Road tradition of conflict and torment that led director Tate Taylor to utilize the Whittington House, near the Tallahatchie's north bank, as Skeeter's home in the 2010 movie "The Help." What better location than the south end of Money Road to immortalize this story of racial division and the power of forgiveness?

Civil Rights

During the 1960s, Greenwood was a hotbed of civil rights activity, including visits by Dr. Martin Luther King and Stokely Carmichael, who first used the slogan "black power" at a speech on Broad Street, a site now marked on Mississippi's Freedom Trail. Bob Dylan and Pete Seeger also made appearances here to rally support for African American voter registration.

Mississippi Blues Trail Markers

www.msbluestrail.org

(Printed map included)

Besides the Robert Johnson marker, Leflore County claims seven other Mississippi Blues Trail markers, each commemorating a significant site in the development of this quintessentially American music.

- A. "WGRM", 222 Howard Street
- B. "Robert Johnson" Gravesite, Little Zion MB Church, GPS Coordinates: 33.563108,-90.215355
- C. "The Elks Lodge," 106 East Scott Street
- D. "B.B. King's Birthplace," CR 513 & CR 305, GPS Coordinates: 33.438985,-90.373363
- E. "Hubert Sumlin," 12th Street at River Road Ext.

F. "Baptist Town," 200 Short Street

G. "Guitar Slim," Salem M.B. Church, CR 101, GPS Coordinates: 33.558991,-90.236925

H. "Furry Lewis," Intersection of Lamar & Carrollton Avenue

I. Blues Deejaays, 503 Ione Street, 33.525494,-90.163998

J. Mississippi John Hurt, CR 41, near Teoc, Mississippi, 33.629678, -90.037723

Downtown and Main Street Walking Tour

(Printed map included)

Begin with a copy of Main Street Greenwood's Walking Tour Brochure, which will lead you past such landmarks as Cotton Row, the 1906 Neoclassic Leflore County Courthouse, the 1914 Carnegie Library and a stretch of retail blocks which date back to the late 1890s. Stroll along the Yazoo River and have your picture made on Keesler Bridge, imagining it swinging into the river's path as steamboats passed. You'll see everything from the largest Elks Club in Mississippi (1912) to the renovated structure which housed Fountain's Big Busy Store (1914), a Delta destination for shoppers. Take time to visit the Alluvian Hotel, a world-renowned resort occupying the 1917 Hotel Irving building. Be sure to notice the elaborate brickwork and ubiquitous iron columns on many of the downtown storefronts.

Turnrow Books

304 Howard Street • 662-453-5995

Lunch Monday - Saturday 11:00 a.m. - 2:00 p.m.

In less than a decade, Turnrow Books has grown into one of the South's most acclaimed independent bookstores. Best-selling authors drop by for informal signings and readings and the shelves are always stocked with hard-to-find books on the Delta and the South. While you're browsing, enjoy the upstairs art gallery over a bowl of soup or one of chef Kenny Paschal's signature sandwiches.

Viking Cooking School

325 C Howard Street • 662-451-6750

Tuesday - Saturday 10:00 a.m. - 5:30 p.m.

www.vikingcookingschool.com

Just across historic Howard Street from the Alluvian Hotel, the Viking Cooking School is housed in a former J. C. Penney building. Space that once held towels and dress racks now features a vast array of kitchen appliances and gadgets and the ever-popular demonstration kitchens. Reserve your space to learn the latest in culinary techniques, taught by Viking's personal chefs in a relaxed and friendly atmosphere.

The Alluvian Spa

325D Howard Street • 662-451-6700 • 866-728-6700 Toll Free

thealluvian.com

Located above the Viking Cooking School, the Alluvian Spa is Mississippi's most sought-out retreat for massages, facials, pedicures and "spoil-yourself-rotten" getaways. From a quick, relaxing massage to a full-day, full-body makeover, the professionals at the Alluvian Spa will make you feel as relaxed as a Delta summer evening.

Winery at Williams Landing

500 Howard Street • 662-299-8092

Lonnie and Debbie Bailey, licensed vintners, have transformed the 1906 Fire Station #1 into a welcoming downtown winery and reception space. The grand wooden doors, which once saw horse-drawn firewagons careening onto Howard Street, will now swing open to entice Greenwood's nighttime visitors into a totally unique experience, complete with a variety of local wines and light bar fare.

Dining Options

If you leave Greenwood hungry, you have only yourself to blame. Delta Bistropub's chef snagged a James Beard Award nomination, and the Ballas family has been rolling comfort food and world-famous pies out of the Crystal Grill's kitchen for three-quarters of a century. Giardina's and Lusco's feature upscale evening dining choices that range from pompano to porterhouse and Jeem's Diner boasts the best burger in the Delta. Expect the unexpected at Delta Bistropub, a fresh culinary experience for the Delta with unique specials updated daily. Turnrow Books' upstairs cafe is the place to go for lunchtime soups, salads and sandwiches, and Webster's is a cozy spot just across the Keesler Bridge in North Greenwood. Other culinary temptations range from Serio's open-face meatball sandwich to Veronica's intricate cakes and treats to Steven's barbecue brisket and famous chocolate cake. If your tastes run to local wines, check out The Winery at Williams Landing, located in Greenwood's restored Fire Station #1 at the south end of Howard Street. Besides the expected muscadine, they also feature interesting fig (Delta Dew) and blueberry (Delta Blue) wines.